The University Board of Visitors officially interprets this policy. Questions regarding this policy should be directed to the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs.
POLICY CONTENTS

Norfolk State University recognizes, appreciates, and supports the concept of academic freedom, and the First Amendment rights of members of the academy. In applying these concepts, the University is guided by, among other things, the American Association of University Professors’ 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure, which provides as follows:

(a) Teachers are entitled to full freedom in research and in the publication of the results, subject to the adequate performance of their other academic duties; but research for pecuniary return should be based upon an understanding with the authorities of the institution.

(b) Teachers are entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing their subject, but they should be careful not to introduce into their teaching controversial matter which has no relation to their subject. Limitations of academic freedom because of religious or other aims of the institution should be clearly stated in writing at the time of the appointment.

(c) College and university teachers are citizens, members of a learned profession, and officers of an educational institution. When they speak or write as citizens, they should be free from institutional censorship or discipline, but their special position in the community imposes special obligations. As scholars and educational officers, they should remember that the public may judge their profession and their institution by their utterances. Hence they should at all time be accurate, should exercise appropriate restraint, should show respect for the opinion of others, and should make every effort to indicate that they are not speaking for the institution.
