POLICY STATEMENT

This policy outlines the University’s goal to achieve and sustain a reduction in layers of supervisory management. Reduced layers of management are expected to enhance University-wide communication, which can be adversely impacted by excessive layers of supervisory management, as well as improve efficiency and economies of scale with regard to supervisory resources. By increasing the number of employees currently managed by an individual supervisor, a reduction of managerial layers and an increase in spans of control within each Department and School/Division can be realized.

SPAN OF CONTROLS POLICY CONTENTS

Purpose

It is Norfolk State University’s goal to achieve and sustain a reduction in layers of supervisory management in compliance with the JLARC recommendation presented in the Appropriation Act of 2015. Too many supervisory positions can adversely affect the efficiency and effectiveness of a function or department. The purpose of this policy is to establish guidelines for establishing and reviewing the number of layers within our departments and through various methods create broader spans of control.

Procedures

Department heads are expected to make every effort to achieve a minimum supervisory span of three (3) employees (including any administrative and executive assistants) for each supervisory position, with six (6) direct reports considered a desirable goal. Recognizing that the minimum supervisory span of three may not be achievable or appropriate in all circumstance, department heads have the discretion to depart from this standard when essential business needs or University operational needs dictate.

The minimum supervisory span of three may not be achievable or appropriate in every circumstance. When it is necessary for a Department Head to deviate from the minimum number of direct reports as specified in this policy, approval must be obtained from the appropriate Vice President or Associate Vice President (for those Associate Vice Presidents that report directly to the President). This approval authority cannot be delegated to a subordinate except in exceptional circumstances.

Monitoring

Department Heads are required to review spans of control and update organizational charts
This annual update time will be designated by the Office of Human Resources.

Opportunities to Review and Reconsider Spans of Control

These specific situations present opportunities to review spans of control and increase supervisory spans, thereby reducing layers of management. Department Heads should utilize these opportunities to advance the goals of this policy.

- Employee retirements and resignations
- Vacancies
- Organizational restructuring
- Department consolidation
- Transfers of supervisors to other departments
- Elimination of supervisory positions
- Layoffs
- Creation of new positions
- Use of a “lead employee” versus a formal supervisory position

Department heads should utilize these opportunities to advance the goals of this policy.

Assistance

The Office of Human Resources is available to provide consultative assistance to Department Heads in their efforts to increase supervisory spans and reduce organizational layers.

PUBLICATION

This policy shall be widely published and distributed to the University community. To ensure timely publication and distribution thereof, Human Resources will make every effort to:
